Dear Colleagues:

Last year, we held the first Annual ABA Women in Insurance Network (WIN) CLE Workshop. It was a tremendous success, with over 100 attorneys and claims and risk management professionals coming together for a day of exceptional panels and networking. We thank everyone -- attendees, sponsors and panelists -- who helped to make last year’s event a success. Building on our momentum, we are thrilled to invite you to the 2nd Annual ABA WIN CLE Workshop in Chicago, IL on October 15, 2013. This year’s workshop includes an exceptional group of moderators and panelists, including in-house, insurer- and policyholder-side counsel and consultants to the legal profession, discussing important topics in the insurance coverage area. This is a great opportunity to be inspired and energized while sharpening your skills and building your network in the process.

The WIN CLE Workshop will be held at the Chicago, IL offices of Jenner & Block LLP. We hope to see you there.

Breakout Session A: Navigating the Coverage Minefield to Resolve Claims Against Lawyers

1:35 PM - 2:30 PM

Using a real world legal malpractice claim hypothetical, the panel will discuss the myriad issues that arise in investigating, litigating and resolving a lawyer's professional liability claim that raises significant coverage issues. The panel will include perspectives from the industry, outside insurer coverage counsel and legal malpractice defense counsel.

Panelists
- Laura Frankel, CNA
- Karen DeGrand, Donahue Brown Mathewson & Smyth LLC
- Kimberly Ashmore, Wiley Rein LLP

Breakout Session B: From the California Courts to Hurricane Sandy: Latest Trends in Mediating Coverage Disputes

1:35 PM - 2:30 PM

This panel will discuss the use and scheduling of mediation to efficiently and effectively resolve and/or litigate an insurance coverage dispute. The presentation will address the trends in mediation strategy, and how that strategy might be affected by recent events, including pre-suit mediation to resolve Hurricane Sandy claims, budget cuts for the California courts, and fast-paced dockets in certain jurisdictions.

Panelists
- Althea Garvey, AIG
- Arden Levy, Arden Levy Law PLLC
- Michelle Meyers, Burnham & Brown
- Sherilyn Pastor, McCarter & English LLP
Policyholders, stop the nickel and diming by carriers. Carriers, educate your policyholder colleagues on what it takes to proactively track and manage defense costs. This panel will discuss practical steps both sides can take to prepare for the inevitable coverage disputes that arise around defense costs.

Panelists

Nancy Sher Cohen, Proskauer Rose LLP
Carol Gerner, Sedgwick LLP
Stephanie Sciullo, Mine Safety Appliances Company
Elizabeth Hanke, KCIC, LLC

---

This panel will present an overview of the procedures a company can implement immediately after an environmental catastrophe involving toxic releases and property losses that will help mitigate legal and financial impacts. The panel will also discuss how insurance counsel can help avoid pitfalls and ensure the optimal results for the company and the insurer.

Panelists

Dorothea Regal, Hoguet Newman Regal & Kenney LLP
Laura Goodman, Sedgwick LLP
Erica Dominitz, Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP
Cassandra Shivers, Arthur J. Gallagher & Co.
Lori Siwik, Risk International
This panel will explore the potential benefits of publicly resolving coverage disputes, the potential future impact on alternative disputes resolution of more litigants opting for ADR, thereby reducing the number of common law decisions, and whether there are alternatives to common law as the rule of decision in ADR proceedings.

Moderator
Freya K. Bowen, Perkins Coie LLP

Panelists
Kathleen J. McJohn, WMS Industries, Inc.
Megan Scully, CNA Pro
Kathleen M. Scanlon, CPR Institute for Dispute Resolution

Using a hypothetical, this panel will address the challenges that arise in handling professional liability insurance claims involving financially distressed or insolvent companies. Topics will include bankruptcy basics for insurance professionals; applicability of SIRs/deductibles; necessity of comfort orders before paying policy proceeds; settlement dynamics in bankruptcy cases; key coverage issues; and insurance placement issues for debtors and reorganizing companies.

Panelists
Kimberly M. Melvin, Wiley Rein LLP

Hilda Battle, Aon plc
Jaime B. Morgan, XL Professional Insurance
BREAKOUT SESSION G: WAGE AND HOUR LAWSUITS: COVERAGE ISSUES UNDER EPL POLICIES

2:50 PM - 3:45 PM

Wage and hour lawsuits raise numerous coverage issues under employment practices liability policies. The differing policy language of Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) exclusions in policies require a careful analysis of whether coverage is available for statutory wage and hour claims even when the policy contains a FLSA exclusion. This panel will discuss the wage and hour litigation trends, identify the key coverage issues implicated with such wage and hour claims and discuss products in the market.

PANELISTS
Melissa J. Perez, Troutman Sanders LLP
Linda Kornfeld, Kasowitz Benson Torres & Friedman LLP
Marlen Hurtado, Equity Risk Partners
Kelly Thoerig, Marsh FINPRO
Dawn Alderucci, XL Insurance

BREAKOUT SESSION H: RECENT TRENDS IN BAD FAITH LITIGATION

2:50 PM - 3:45 PM

This panel will explore hot topics and recent trends in bad faith litigation from the perspective of in-house counsel as well as attorneys representing policyholders and insurance companies. Topics will include: bad faith claims between insurers; bad faith claims when an insurer is defending under a reservation of rights; post-litigation insurer conduct; and claims against third-party adjustors.

PANELISTS
Kristi Singleton, Dickstein Shapiro LLP
Jennifer Ellin, Fireman’s Fund Insurance Company
Miriam Smolen, Gilbert LLP
Sara Thorpe, Gordon & Rees LLP
Breakout Session I: When Food Goes Bad: Coverage Issues Arising from Food Contamination Claims

2:50 PM - 3:45 PM

Stories regarding food contamination and food recalls abound in the news and almost inevitably lead to insurance claims. This panel will discuss food contamination and resulting recall claims under general liability, property, business interruption, and specialized policies. The speakers will analyze the potentially relevant provisions of policies, cases construing those provisions in the food contamination context, and the reasoning underlying those decisions.

Panelists
Virginia L. White-Mahaffey, Steptoe & Johnson, LLP
Christine A. Gudaitis, Ver Ploeg & Lumpkin, P.A.
William Harrison, Marsh
Denise L. Kleppinger, Everest National Insurance Company

Breakout Session J: Arbitration in the Context of Reinsurance and Insurance Disputes

2:50 PM - 3:45 PM

Round-table discussion with leading insurance and reinsurance executives about the virtues and drawbacks of using arbitration as a dispute resolution mechanism. The panel will discuss such issues as: (1) is arbitration really more streamlined and cost-efficient than litigation; (2) what are the pros and cons of having industry experts rather than judges decide these disputes; (3) what are the advantages and disadvantages resulting from the fact that arbitration results are confidential; and (4) what additional complexities exist in the context of a three-member arbitration panel, comprised of an umpire and two party-appointed arbitrators.

Doing good work should be enough, right? Actually, it’s not. Clients expect competence as the absolute minimum in required skills. So how do coverage lawyers, particularly women, distinguish themselves from the competition. What are the things that impress clients and make them want to work with you again? What are the actions or characteristics that annoy them, or, even worse, make them consider firing or never using you again? An experienced panel of clients and outside counsel, both policyholders and insurers (and some who are both), will disclose the things that work and those that don’t.
