Interim Rule Implements Section 889 Ban on Contractors Using Technologies from Certain China-Based Companies

Overview
Paul Hurst, Meredith Rathbone, Peter Jeydel, and Caitlin Conroy co-authored an article titled “Interim Rule Implements Section 889 Ban on Contractors Using Technologies from Certain China-Based Companies” for Pratt’s Government Contracting Law Report. The article, published in the October issue, discusses how an interim rule amending the Federal Acquisition Regulation prohibits executive agencies from contracting with companies that use technologies from certain China-based companies.

Practices
Government Contracts
Economic Sanctions
Export Controls