Federal Contractors May Face Immigration-Related Hiring Requirements and Barriers

Overview
Paul Hurst, Liz LaRocca, Dana Delott, and Caitlin Conroy co-authored an article titled “Federal Contractors May Face Immigration-Related Hiring Requirements and Barriers” for Pratt’s Government Contracting Law Report. The article, published in the December issue, discusses an executive order that could potentially lead to restrictions on the ability of government contractors and subcontractors to use foreign labor in the performance of government contracts.